Earlier this week it was announced that Williams would make his late-night debut with an interview on The Tonight Show with Jimmy Fallon on Wednesday (Jan. 7). Storrie is slated to make his late-night debut on Late Night with Seth Meyers next week (Jan. 12). Both Williams and Storrie have also signed to CAA for representation.

Heated Rivalry, hailing from Canadian streamer Crave and airing on HBO Max in the U.S., was created for television by Letterkenny alum Jacob Tierney, and centers around a fictional hockey universe. The show focuses on two rival professional players — Canada-born Shane Hollander (Williams) of the fictitious Montreal Metros and Russia-born Ilya Rozanov (Storrie) of the fictitious Boston Raiders — as they navigate a near-decade-long relationship turned (spoiler alert) relationship.

Crave renewed Heated Rivalry for a second season and HBO Max confirmed they'll continue to air the series. Tierney, who wrote and directed the show's entire first season, has confirmed that he'll return to direct the series, but told THR ahead of Heated Rivalry's finale that he was considering the possibility "that other writers will come in to help" him out, but that he wasn't sure yet.

The 2026 Golden Globes will air live from 8-11 p.m. ET / 5-8 p.m. PT on CBS, streaming on Paramount+, Sunday, Jan. 11.
