Originally released digitally via Milan Records in January, the 34-track album marked Peter Peter's first major television scoring project. The composer's electronic-leaning score is built on ambient synths and recurring romantic themes, underscoring the central relationship between rival hockey players Shane Hollander (Hudson Williams) and Ilya Rozanov (Conor Storrie).

The upcoming CD and vinyl versions will feature a previously unreleased track, "One Soul (Cottage Mix)," as well as expanded packaging with behind-the-scenes images from the series. The vinyl will be issued as a two-disc set featuring both the show's needle drops and selections from Peter Peter's score, along with a double-sided 12x24-inch poster, two trading cards, gatefold packaging and liner notes from series creator Jacob Tierney. The CD will similarly include two discs, with the full score and featured songs, plus a fold-out poster and liner notes.

There will be multiple vinyl variants. A widely available "Montreal v. Boston" edition will be sold through major retailers and indie record stores, while an "Icy Inferno" colorway will be exclusive to Milan Records and Sony Music Canada's direct-to-consumer shops. Aside from the disc color, the packaging remains the same across versions.
